From the Rector

Dear Friends

I expect few of us can remember our own baptism but we will all have witnessed others being baptised. Most likely in a church with the suitably warmed water in the font, or perhaps even baptismal pool, for the occasion! Perhaps we have even seen baptisms in rivers, lakes or the sea in warmer climes, but what I witnessed in St Petersburg on 19th January took my breath away.

In the Russian Orthodox Church the Epiphany and Baptism of Christ is celebrated on this day and believers are plunged into a blessed section of frozen water three times in remembrance of Jesus' baptism in the River Jordan by John the Baptist. It is also believed that being submerged into the water on this day will cleanse the body's sins and ensure a healthy year ahead.

This icy baptism was once a very popular practice for the devout, even the Tsars used to take part, traipsing down from the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg every year to their own personal prorub, or ice hole in the nearby Neva river. During the time of communism the tradition all but disappeared with the rest of public religious practice, but in recent years this way of marking the Kreschenie (Epiphany) has again become popular. I witnessed hundreds, if not thousands of people taking part in this literally breath taking event in St Petersburg. and this would have been happening across Russia at the same time.

Remembering, making real again our baptism, is part of our life too as we renew our baptismal promises as a congregation at Easter and on other occasions during the year.

In the Scottish Episcopal Church there is also an invitation to do this as individuals at significant times in our life, and there will be an opportunity to do so when the Bishop is with us on Sunday 19th February (see last paragraph on page 6 for more information), and I can promise you ice cold water is not part of the deal!

Wishing you every blessing

The Queen sent her congratulations to David Finney

. On 3rd January 2017 David Finney, a long-standing member of Christ Church Morningside, celebrated his 100th birthday. David is well known to many in the congregation, especially those who have attended the early morning service on Sundays or Cameo on Wednesday once a month. Also David's wife, Betty, is fondly remembered, but sadly she passed away ten years ago. David lives in his own home with support from his family, friends, neighbours and carers. He enjoys reading, listening to music and having interesting conversations.

The breadth and diversity of David's contributions to society, both in the UK and overseas, are a cause for celebration as he enters his 101st year. From middle class beginnings David's mathematical ability was recognized by a scholarship to Manchester Grammar School, and later a scholarship to study mathematics at Cambridge University. From an early age David had great natural talent for spotting patterns in numbers and for complicated arithmetical calculations (which were labour-intensive before the emergence of electronic computers). It was at Cambridge that he encountered statistics and became interested in applying statistical concepts to real life situations. Thus David was selected as a promising young researcher to work for Ronald Fisher and Frank Yates, two of the giants of biostatistics in the UK in the 1930s and 1940s. Starting in 1939 David worked at Rothamsted Experimental Station at Harpenden helping to improve agricultural crop yields. This was a time when there was an urgent need to improve food production in wartime Britain.

In 1952 the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation asked David to spend a year working with agricultural scientists in India. This work led to the establishment of the Indian Institute of Agricultural Research Statistics, and many return visits to India over the years. David received frequent invitations from researchers in other parts of the world and has travelled extensively. In 1984-85, just after he retired from Edinburgh University, David was a visiting scientist at the International Rice Research Institute in the Philippines.

David has devoted much energy to using statistics to enhance understanding of real life issues relevant to society at large. For instance his contributions to improving the safety of medicines are recognised both in the UK and more widely. David served on the first UK Committee for the Safety of Drugs and, along with another Professor at Edinburgh University Professor, Derrick Dunlop, proposed a way to collect and analyse the adverse effects of medicines. This was in the wake of the realisation that thalidomide given during pregnancy was linked to high rates of death or disability of the babies. Public duty and the conviction that statistical methods are valuable tools in the service of society have been core themes throughout David's life. The impact that David made to the betterment of society has been recognized by many awards from learned institutions and also a CBE.

SECMA Coffee morning on 18th March

Please note the date and plan to support us .

SECMA — the Scottish Episcopal Church Mission Association — previously known as LINKS, supports small projects throughout the developing world.

The main fundraiser for the diocese is an Annual Sale and Coffee Morning, which we shall host this year on Saturday 18 March (postponed from October because the kitchen was closed). Our congregation will be responsible for the coffee team, a plant stall, and a tombola. Other churches will provide stalls for home baking/preserves, books, and bric-a-brac/gifts.

Please support us by donating plants, tray bakes and biscuits for coffee time, items suitable for tombola prizes and contributions for the other stalls. For any higher value items we shall organise a silent auction, so please check if you have something suitable. There will be a sign-up sheet at the back of the church, so please use this if you can offer to help.

Contact Janet Goody on 447 6535 or Ceci Stephens on 446 0922.

Also please come along on the day, help us to raise funds, and meet representatives from other churches .. Tickets are just £2.00 to include coffee and baking/biscuits.

Journeys from Candlemas to the eve of Passiontide

LENT DAYTIME

"The Way"

This is a lent course based on the film 'The Way'. The film observes a group of pilgrims walking the 'Way of St James to Santiago de Compostela'. It explores Christian understanding of 'salvation' using film clips, biblical accounts and images of salvation, past present and future, as it follows the pilgrims journey of inner transformation. There is reading material for each of the sessions over five weeks and participants will be required to have a copy of the book in advance of the course The Long Road to Heaven: A Lent Course Based on the Film "The Way" Circle Books (29 Nov. 2013)

The film (123 mins) will be shown on Tuesday 28th February at 10am and the sessions will run from 10.30am to noon
on Tuesdays 7th, 14th, 21st, 28th March and 4th April
in the Church Centre

it would be helpful to have indication of numbers so please add your details to the sign up sheet at the back of church.

The Bishop is coming to Christ Church again!

Sunday 19th February

Are any of the following for you to consider at this time?

Admission to Communion

Affirmation of Baptism for Confirmation

Affirmation of Baptism for Renewal

We have been very fortunate to have the Bishop with us on several occasions during 2016 and we look forward to his next visit on Sunday 19th February when he will preside at the 10am Sung Eucharist and there will be an opportunity for any who wish to be presented for Admission to Holy Communion or be a candidate for Affirmation of Holy Baptism for Confirmation and Renewal.

Many of us who were brought up in the Anglican tradition were baptised as infants and confirmed as young teenagers, an event which was often linked to our first communion. By 1990, however, admission to Holy Communion prior to Confirmation had been taking place in a number of churches in our Province over a period of twelve years or more and in 1991, when representatives from the entire Anglican Communion met at the Inter Provincial Liturgical Consultation in Toronto, the final statement included these two points:

- ◆ Baptism is for people of all ages, both adults and infants
- ◆ Baptism is complete sacramental initiation and leads to participation in the Eucharist. Confirmation and other rites of affirmation have a continuing pastoral role in the renewal of faith among the baptised but are in no way to be seen as a completion of Baptism or as necessary for admission to communion.

Many of you will remember moving services here when children have been admitted to communion and also when teenagers and adults have been presented for Confirmation and Renewal. The latter often being undertaken by adults who have joined the congregation from a different denomination, or at a stage in their life and faith journey where they wish to renew the promises made at their confirmation.

If you wish to explore any of these opportunities please let me know by as soon as possible.
